WASHINGTON, Feb. 25.—The United States government has suggested formally to Great Britain and Germany that in the interests of humanity and the safeguarding of legitimate commerce, all mines be removed from the high seas except those districts necessary for the protection of coast defenses and harbors.

This suggestion along with proposals designed to obtain Great Britain's acquiescence in a plan to permit the distribution of imported foodstuffs to the civilian population of Germans and bring about abandonment by the latter of its submarine warfare on merchant ships has been submitted by England to her allies France and Russia, for consideration.

Intimations have come to the Washington government that until the British cabinet acts, and the attitude of France and Russia is learned no reply may be given to the American proposal. It may require several days.

Germany to Make Concessions.
In the meantime Germans already manifested a willingness to make concessions which gives officials here round for hope that a conciliatory spirit will be adopted by Great Britain.

It can be stated authoritatively that the American communication made identically to Germany and Great Britain, no mention was made by the United States of what course it would pursue in the event of rejection of its proposals. The United States assumed after the role of mediator in an effort to secure for the present to reach an agreement without the embassies of public discussion in the belligerent countries where passions were sought likely to stimulate influences which would defeat imperial consideration of questions involved.

High officials of the Washington government have shown much solicitude over what might be the extent of repressive measures adopted by the belligerents if they continue to disregard seriously agreed principles of international law. It is understood that one of the arguments used is that if the policy of starvation put into effect by Great Britain first to feel the pinch of hunger might be the British, French and Russian prisoners. Another suggestion said to have been conceived that suffering forced up in the high population of Germans might produce an unpromising effect on the attitude of the American people toward Great Britain and her allies.

Robbed of $5,000; Posse

SPLIFFING, Colo., Feb. 24.—John T. Clark, 24, assistant assayer of the Fremont State bank at Haxton, Colorado, was shot and killed by a bandit and died early yesterday morning in a house he had rented with about $5,000 in the强手's hands. A horse and buckles captured the robber after a chase of eight miles and a fight in which several shots were fired. The robber said his name was William Thompson and that his home was at Mallett, S.D. Charles Rose believed he was the other man to be accepted of the bandit who was said to be a member of a gang of five men in the robbery. He died in his bed last night.

Thompson entered the bank while the vaults were closed. There was at the vaults at a part of the robbery for a short time before the vaults were closed. The latter attempted to seize a revolver near the vault door. To impress them gathered up as much money as he could carry, placed them in his coat pocket. The

We surrendered to the posse from the state department, a subject of regard. Some 200,000 and 300,000 dollars were lost in the nature of a small sum of the amount of negotiations as far as the state department is concerned.

ALLIED WARSHIPS BATTER DOWN DARDANELLES FORTS

Release Russian Black Sea Fleet and Millions of Bushels of Wheat; March on Constantinople by Landing Party Now Is Expected

LONDON, Feb. 25.—(Midnight)—All the forts at the entrance of the Dardanelles have been reduced by the allied fleet. This announcement was made officially tonight.

The announcement of the secretary of the admiralty follows.
"The weather moderating, the bombardment of the outer forts of the Dardanelles was renewed at 8 o'clock this morning. After a period of long range fire, the squadron of battleships attacked at close range. All the forts at the entrance to the straits were successfully reduced and the operations are continuing."

For several days the allied British and French fleet has been pounding at these forts which constituted the greatest obstacle to passage to the straits. Within the straits and in the Sea of Marmora are other fortifications but these are believed to be of a weaker structure.

Guarded Also by Mines.

The straits are guarded by hundreds of mines believed to number at least 1,000. It was under some of these names that the British submarine B.11, strip of water dividing Europe from Asia, in command of Lieutenant Commander Aspinwall, dived last December and torpedoed the Turkish battleship Mesoudieh. Recently the Turks fearfully the entrance of the allied fleet into the Sea of Marmara sent troops land heavy artillery to all the islands in that water.

If once they force the straits the British and French warships which are thought to number between 40 and 40 would likely attempt a landing with a subsequent march on Constantinople. The narrow strait about 11 miles in length which connects the Black sea with the Sea of Marmara is also strongly fortified and it is through this strait that the Black sea fleet of Russia would have to come in order to reach the open.

There has been further contact between the Russians and the Turks in the Caucasus where both claim to have been successful.

The house of commons today Sir Edward Grey, secretary for foreign affairs, made the important announcement which was received with cheering in Great Britain sympathized with Russia's aspirations to gain access to the ocean sea through Turkey.

Difficulties in West

The armies in the west are faced with the same difficulties as the armies in the east are concerned they are continuing their way to a bombardment of the German positions along the coast and to offensive operations in the interior.

In the south the British and French are fighting gallantly in the mountains and the Germans are fighting in the plains.

At the entrance to the straits the British and French sent troops land heavy artillery to all the islands in that water.

If once they force the straits the British and French warships which are thought to number between 40 and 40 would likely attempt a landing with a subsequent march on Constantinople.

Within the boundaries of the Black sea a powerful Russian fleet has been landed and together with hundreds of steamers which might be used for transport purposes if Russia deemed it advisable. Furthermore should the allied fleet be successful in its present undertaking Russia would be enabled to release millions of bushels of wheat.

Sir Edward Grey's statement in the house of commons today that England is in entire accord with Russia's desire for access to the open sea is in accordance with the intention of the Russes in prime minister M. G. Tsvetanov.

Welborn Says Workmen Are Better Satisfied Now Than Ever Before

NEW YORK, Feb. 25.—The recent strike of miners in the coal fields of the Anthracite region cost the operators $1,250,000. President Leo P. Welborn estimated in a statement released to the press in connection with the meeting of the coal operators in the Anthracite field, as follows: "I am confident that the miners will be satisfied with the new contract when it is signed."

Consider American Note.

LONDON, Feb. 25.—The American in the conduct of which remains secret but which in general seeks to bring about an understanding regarding the war zone prescribed by Germany and the shipping of foodstuffs to the civilian population of the belligerent countries will be considered during the conference of the cabinet of the United Kingdom to be held in London on the 26th.

The press and the London public are speculating that President Wilson's note, suggesting that Britain should not interfere in the war zone, will be read to the cabinet.

While the British ships have been destroyed in the work that the blockade is being maintained, it is pointed out that they are for the most part small vessels and that the majority of them are either sunk or captured.

White British ships have been captured in the work that the blockade is being maintained, it is pointed out that they are for the most part small vessels and that the majority of them are either sunk or captured.

Germany Embroils Neutrals.

It is believed here also that the destruction of neutrals and cargoes will embroil Germany with neutral countries and that in the long run the losses which the Allies will suffer will be more than offset by the anger aroused on the part of the neutrals and the possible refusal of neutrals such as Norway, Sweden and others to ship from their ports to Germany.

The British government has issued a circular to all the ports of the empire ordering neutrals to be used in the carrying of cargoes.

HOW ROCK ISLAND STOCK WAS WATERED

Holding Companies in Turn Held by Other Eastern Concerns

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25.—Financial operations of the Chicago Rock Island & Pacific Railway companies between 1901 and 1914 were outlined today by Daniel G. Reid at the resumption of the interstate commerce commission's investigation of the railroad. His testimony bore mainly on the organization of the road's holding companies and the results of those transactions after 1901 in which Mr. Reid said, he and Judge William H. Moore J. H. Moore and William B. Lewis controlled about $20,000,000 of Rock Island stock, about one-third of that outstanding.

The holding concerns as organized in 1902 he said were known respectively as the Iowa and New Jersey companies (both capitalized at $10,000,000). He said the Iowa corporation held the majority of the Rock Island railway, the operating company, while the New Jersey concern controlled that company through several powers in the election of directors. Securities of the holding companies had been placed with the Central Trust company of New York, he added on condition that each share of operating stock turned in should receive stock in the Iowa company and bonds and stock in the New Jersey company equaling an exchange of $20 for $1 par value.

"Then the directors of the New Jersey corporation controlled the Iowa company which controlled the operating company which latter controlled the St. Louis & San Francisco company and the Choctaw, Oklahoma & Gulf railroad," asked Chief Counsel Folk following the commission.

Conditions Different Then.

"Not at all," replied Mr. Reid. "Conditions in those days were entirely different. People were buying railroads overnight. We did not want to have one of our fellows slip up and have our money in the other fellow's pocket."

Mr. Folk asked if the result had not been to load upon the back of the operating company some $30,000,000 in capitalization to be kept up.

"There was nothing to be kept up on $150,000,000," Mr. Reid said, adding that stock in the Iowa company to that amount had never been taken from the 'Central Trust' company's vault.

Then instead of being watered five times asked Mr. Folk how much was the stock of the operating company burdened in your opinion?"

Mr. Reid said a total of $71,000,000 in Rock Island railway stock had been turned in under the plan and that belonging to himself and his associates had cost from $150 to $200 a share. On the $71,000,000 he said $100,000,000 in bonds or stocks of the holding companies had been issued, the only source of dividends on this sum being the earnings of the operating company.

Frederick C. Sharod, an expert of the commission describing the purchase of the Choctaw, Oklahoma & Gulf stocks for the Rock Island said the purchaser had paid approximately $24,000,000 for stock which had a par value of nearly $16,000,000. He also told of stock payments by the Rock Island to certain officers and directors of that company which he said meant a net loss of $50,000 to the company.

Needs the Money.

The administration also desires to have the Nicaraguan treaty ratified because the government in that country is said to be facing serious financial difficulties unless it can get the money payment provided for in the treaty for the Nicaraguan canal route.

It is understood that the president hopes to have both of these treaties ratified before the formal opening of the Panama canal in July so that at that time entire friendship may exist between all the nations in America.

Although administration leaders believe that the federal trade commission nominations can be confirmed before March 4, it is not certain to be a fight on several of them. No special session of the Senate would be called to consider these nominations alone, however, since the president had been advised by his legal advisers that he has the authority to make recess appointments in case the nominations fail at this session.

Agricultural Appropriation.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25.—After a brief session tonight, conference on the government ship purchase bill adjourned until tomorrow night to permit further negotiations undertaken by administration leaders with Democratic senators who revolted against the measure.

Champions of the bill hope to change it as to win back the support of the Democratic renegades. This will necessitate an amendment to make the proposed undertaking distinctly a temporary one.

Even if this is done, the administration senator has a little hope of overcoming Republ. opposition.

WILSON FAVORS PURCHASE OF OLD JEFFERSON HOME

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25.—President Wilson sent a letter today to Senator Kern and Representative Underwood, favoring the passage of the resolution pending in congress for the purchase of Monticello, the home of Thomas Jefferson.

"I most earnestly hope," said the president, "there will be some interval in the business of congress which can be used for the passage of this most interesting piece of legislation which I think will meet the approval of the whole nation."

INDUSTRIAL BILL IS EXPLAINED IN DETAIL

Safety for Employees.

One of the most important clauses in the bill, according to Bannister, is that providing for safety and sanitation in places of employment. Under the old common law it was enacted that a reasonably safe and healthful place be provided by the employer; and as this was interpreted by the employer as he liked, the places were not particularly safe in many cases. The present bill incorporates that law in statutory form, but also provides that commissioners have power to determine what is reasonably safe and healthy place. If the order of the commission is unreasonable in the view of the employee he may have it reviewed or appealed to the courts. Free legal agencies are provided for in the bill also.

"The state is making an effort to bring the jobless man and the manless job together," said Mr. Bannister. "The bill provides for mediation and arbitration also in case of threatened strike. It may argue a majority agreement of both sides agree, and much good may come from this clause."

Workmen's Compensation Clause.

Coming to a discussion of the workmen's compensation liability clause Mr. Bannister compared the new with the old system and entered into a detailed discussion of the proposed act.

"Under the old system," he said, "the employer liable for an accident to his workmen unless guilty of negligence. Furthermore, no employee had the right to recover if any of the following defenses existed. If the employee had assumed risk if a fellow employee was guilty of negligence or if the employee himself was partially guilty." Under the present laws in Colorado the first two defenses have been done away with.

"That system is not right, it should be changed so that he should assist and the loss, and we should make his place reasonably safe and not depend on unjust defenses to get out of paying compensation to his men."

The new act does not consider negligence and the employee gets his money if injured in course of employment.

Penalties for Violation.

"Penalties are provided in this extent," he continued. "If the employer willfully neglects his duty and does not abide by the law he will be penalized 50 per cent of the total sum, whereas the employee will lose 50 per cent if his compensation if he willfully fails to heed the law."

The great burden of the bill will be the insurance, according to Mr. Bannister. "The overhead expenses of running the coal mines and metal mines in Colorado already are great," he said, "and the employers must not pay more than they can bear to insure against the contingencies. But the premiums must be fairly heavy, as part of the money will be given to the employee, part to pay for investigation

INDIANS MOVE THEIR WOMEN AND CHILDREN TO PLACES OF SAFETY

DENVER, Feb. 25.—The women and children members of the band of Ute Indians who are aiding Tso-Nekoker, wanted to the federal authorities on a charge of murder, in resisting arrest, United States deputies near Buff, Utah, have been taken to a place of safety, according to a special to the Rocky Mountain News tonight. The report was delivered to United States Marshal, Nekoker, late today by two Navajo scouts who reconnoitered near the Indian stronghold southwest of Buff today. It was stated.

Friendly Utes living in the vicinity of Buff are said to have arranged with agents of the Indian department to move into the Colorado Ute Reservation. The belief as expressed by Marshal Nekoker that Tso-Nekoker and those who have been aiding him in resisting the posse, will not surrender without a fight.

SALT LAKE CITY, Feb. 25.—A special to the Deseret News from Buff, Utah, says that Indian Agent Creek and Assistant District Attorney Cook, who arrived last night, are in conference with Marshal Nekoker, Agent Jenkins and citizens of Buff, regarding the best method to apprehend the hostile Indians. Several wealthy cattle owners at the conference are urging that troops be rushed in at once, as thousands of cattle located between the Indian strongholds are in danger. Buff is under heavy guard with lookouts stationed at all points of vantage.

According to a treaty entered into years ago, the Ute Indians agreed to assist in the capture of any outlaw members of their tribe. Assistant District Attorney Cook says that if the friendly Utes do not observe the treaty provisions they will be regarded as accessories after the fact. An effort will be made by Agents Jenkins and Creek to have the friendly Utes brought into town immediately. Definite action regarding the plan of campaign to be followed is expected today.

GERMAN SOCIALISTS DEFEND FATHERLAND

Leaders Declare Now Is No Time to Quibble Over Small Matters

BERLIN (Via London), Feb. 25.—A speech which Reichsberger Heine delivered at Stuttgart several days ago is attracting much attention as forewarning the probable course of the development of the Socialist party after the war. Herr Heine said:

"The present war shows the necessity for the Socialists to make distinctions in military matters between what is necessary for the national defense and what they hitherto have opposed as militarism. The Fatherland must be defended and the Socialists must vote money for making all technical preparations therefor. The Socialists undermine their own influence by saying 'No' to any and all military measures."

"The Socialists must adopt a policy for increasing their own influence over the government. They must avoid all revolutionary talk and seek the use of the existing state of affairs to improve the welfare of the working classes."

Herr Heine ridiculed, amid the laughter of his hearers, the policy of the Socialist leaders in studiously avoiding appearing at the courts of the German rulers, lest such action be construed as recognition of monarchical institutions.

"This," added Herr Heine, "seems laughable now when we find that their sons are manfully confronting the enemy, buying for the country that which we refuse them, the salvation that is due to every decent man."

The Vorwärts, though it represents the radical wing of the party, admits that Herr Heine expressed the views of a section of the party leaders. The newspaper summarized the speech without protest against a single utterance, but indicates that a discussion of it must be postponed until after the war.

part for the general overhead expense of running the insurance company and part to the stockholders.

"The attitude of labor leaders, while not in absolute accord with different phases of the bill," he said, "was satisfactory. Many of them would like a bigger scale of benefits, the present list of which they now consider too small. But they have not studied the effects on the industrial situation and possibly on the employers and consumers. For it is upon these last two that the burden would fall. They also would like the limitation removed from the medical, surgical and hospital provisions, and the compensation for death and total disability extended."

The employers are reconciled to the situations in Mr. Bannister's opinion, and realize that it is better to have a bill framed by a conservative committee and thrashed out in a conservative legislature than some time in the future.

GERMANY SENDS THREE NEW SUBMARINES TO ADRIATIC

LONDON, Feb. 25.—(Friday)—A general dispatch to the Daily Express says:

"The three new German submarines sent to Italy will begin operations immediately in the Adriatic and the Mediterranean. Their activity is to be directed chiefly against transport ships. A dozen more submarines will be sent to the sea later."

The Austrian admiral, Count Beck, says that Germany and Austria now have 10 submarines available for service.

AUSTRIANS IN GALICIA IN CRITICAL CONDITION

LONDON, Feb. 25.—(Friday)—The Foreign correspondent of the Times describes the position of the Austrians in east Galicia as critical. He says:

"The activity of the Austro-Germans in Ruthenia seems to have reached its utmost limits. Meanwhile, the Russians continue to move across the Carpathians immediately on the flank of the invading Germans, whose position is precarious."

TWO ALLIED AEROPLANES FRIGHTEN ZEPPELINS

GENEVA, Feb. 25.—A dispatch received from Constance says that two allied aeroplanes were seen Tuesday night from Constance flying northward. As a result, there was great excitement in Friedrichshafen. The Zeppelins there, it is said, were covered with metal netting, the lights in the town were extinguished and the people took to the cellar. The aeroplanes flew over Moersburg and later reached Belfort safely.

TOO MANY LAWS HURT BUSINESS

that it exists in an atmosphere of attack.

"The nation is filled with political economists. Business is filled to satiety with economic theories.

Handed an Epigram.

"When men ask for work they are handed an epigram."

"But the sad fact is, the more practical theories are proposed the poorer become the people."

"I urge the prosperity of the average man."

To secure that prosperity, I urge the imperative necessity of taking business out of an atmosphere of attack into the old-fashioned, go-ahead atmosphere of business initiative and American enterprise. I urge relief from the farm, factory and home which have filled the streets with unemployment and put away the dinner pail of the workingman empty upon the shelf of the impoverished home. I urge the restoration of confidence in the fact that American business men are the peers of any in the world. Finally, I urge that the public interest in transportation is that it shall be prosperous in order that it may be a successful and energetic aid to all the business it is designed to serve."

Then the president and many governors are "anxious students of the needs of our time," Mr. Sprague said, "was happy, angry and patriotic assurance, that the present is a passing phase."

Effect of Legislation.

A letter from James J. Hill said that legislation of the last two years, which he termed the most important in commercial and financial affairs since the Civil War, has so disturbed business that not the best-informed legislator nor the ablest lawyer can give any more than a hint what the effects of these regulations will be upon business. Mr. Hill did not offer an opinion as to the ultimate effect of this legislation, but said that whether it be good or bad, the adaptation of the country's business to the new conditions would produce a trial period extremely critical for every kind of activity.

"What productive activity needs most, what it has needed, and what must be given to it soon, if it is not to suffer under accumulating troubles, is simply a period of freedom from uncertainty resulting from constant political attacks," the message said. "Business needs a rest."

"Any revision of the tariff requires two years before commerce can adjust itself to the new schedules. This country is making such an adjustment now, but so much less important and uncertain in effect is it than other changes in progress, that business men almost forget the tariff in trying to forecast and prepare for the future."

Uncertainty Remains.

The next new element is the federal banking and currency system, the first attempt in the nation's history to deal with this subject in the light of economic principles. The public, as a whole, though not overlooking the faults of the system, believes it will work out well as a preventive of panics. Yet only experience can bring out in practice its merits and its faults.

"Some uncertainty remains, and uncertainty, almost as much as actual disaster, slows down business operations everywhere."

These two measures alone would compel business to proceed cautiously. Mr. Hill wrote, "The new corporation commission and the Clayton bill he believed as never legislation of 'doubtful propensity and questionable results.'

The commission, while only supervisory, embodies a fundamental principle, according to Mr. Hill, in asserting the right of the federal government to control and regulate business as a whole, the peaceful, legitimate conduct of ordinary affairs. "No session of congress will pass without actual or attempted legislation to extend its powers and make its control more absolute and arbitrary," he wrote. "Before the possibility of a future where it may be necessary for them to fight for their lives, the business interests naturally hesitate and are afraid to expand their operations."

Part of Measure Crude.

Mr. Hill predicted it would be generations before all the provisions of the Clayton bill had been vindicated. "Some of its provisions are sound and almost ridiculous," he said, "like the limitation on interlocking directorates. That can produce nothing but a crop of dummy directors. The man with property interests in two corporations will not abandon one of them because he can no longer be a director in both. He will send, instead, a clerk who will obey his orders. The public will gain nothing. Other provisions of the law are plainly injurious."

FRANK APPEAL AGAIN RATE OF WAR RISK INSURANCE BOOSTED

Coercion Chief Contention of Defense in Asking for New Hearing

by U. S. Bureau

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25.—Freedom for Leo M. Frank under death sentence for the murder of Mary Phagan, Atlanta, Ga., factory girl, was sought today before the United States supreme court. His counsel argued that mob violence prevailed and was tolerated during the trial to such an extent that Frank was "coerced" into being absent from the courtroom when the verdict was rendered.

The order also extends the special port zone on the continent to include Bordeaux. The previous limit was Dunkirk. The bureau reserves the right to refuse insurance to these ports.

The order was the first general move made by the department to protect the insurance bureau's interests since Germany's declaration of a war zone about the British Isles. It was made necessary, according to the department's statement, "owing to the exceptional hazard involved."

The bureau has been unable, to information received up to this time, to determine whether the sinking of the cotton steamer Aris and Evelyn was the result of inadequate information concerning safety zones, or whether their master was negligent.

Judges and Clerks of Election Will Be Chosen This Year Only After Passing Qualifications

A taxation suit of considerable importance is to come up in the district court, March 9, in the case of the Myron Stratton Home corporation against former Assessor R. J. Gwinn. Taxes amounting to $5,000 assessed against the home will be paid to the county treasurer under protest, the home corporation alleging that Assessor Gwinn, acting under instructions from the state tax commission, assessed the home and at the same time exempted the M. W. A. sanatorium, on the grounds that the latter is a charitable institution. The home claims that its property should be exempt from taxation. The assessor contended that only the ground actually occupied by the buildings should be exempt.

But if these beliefs seem to us who are outside to be vital, if they touch our well-being, our future hopes, then we certainly have a right to study those beliefs, to criticize them, to put them to the test to see whether they are well founded.

CHAPMAN LOOKING FOR COMPETENT OFFICIALS

Judges and Clerks of Election Will Be Chosen This Year Only After Passing Qualifications

City Clerk Chapman is on a still hunt for competent election clerks and judges for the city election, April 5, and the ordinary person who might qualify under the present form of state elections will have a hard time, to make good as an official under the preferential system of voting, which will be used here for the first time this spring.

The city appoints its own clerks and judges this year under a new law, and the old board does not have to be used. Already a number of people have sent in their names for places on the election board, but none have been accepted and none will be until the clerk and the commissioners are satisfied that they will be competent. The preferential system is so different from the old system of voting that we must have people who know their business, Chapman said yesterday. There are so many new features to voting and counting under the present system that a mistake can easily be made, and we want to prevent this. We want men and women who can keep their heads and know what they are about in the coming election. A man's election may depend upon the accurate counting of the choices other than the first.

The city has a force of clerks copying the county clerk's registration books, the names being turned over to the city. All those who didn't vote at the last election have had their names purged from the books and will have to register again. If they voted at the fall election, however, and have not changed their place of residence, they will be eligible to vote in the spring city election. The registration date for the precinct is March 21, from 8 a. m. to 3 p. m., and for the city hall, March 28, 8 a. m. to 9 p. m. The last day to change residence is March 31.

No more petitions of nomination have been taken out. The first day that these petitions can be filed is March 6 and the last day March 17.

In order to file their petitions, the single taxers, who will submit an amendment to the charter, must have 5 per cent of the vote for governor in 1914, in Colorado Springs, which was 9,527. This makes 475 names, which is understood, already have been obtained.

F. B. Davy May Face Charge of Forgery

F. B. Davy, 22 years old, who claims to be of a wealthy and socially prominent New York family, is in the county jail, facing the charge of passing a worthless draft on the Antlers hotel.

Davy, until a few weeks ago, was a student at the Colorado School of Mines at Golden, but failing in his studies, went to Denver, lived in expensive hotels, and soon was in the limelight for numerous escapades. He is said to have masqueraded as a girl at a Denver hotel, where he met several notorious who were in Denver at the time. He claims that he is the son of Mrs. B. T. Timmerman of Niagars Falls.

Davy came to Colorado Springs last Saturday and cashed a draft for $50 on his mother in New York city. The hotel wired New York and Davy's mother, it is said, refused to answer the telegram. Tuesday Davy received a telegram signed by "Burt Grunwald" reading as follows:

"Can't make Springs before Saturday. Sending five hundred from Durie. Be good."

Davy admitted to the police that he went to Denver and sent the telegram to himself in order to strengthen his credit at the Antlers. He claimed to be a member of a fraternity at Golden, but members, when questioned, denied it.

Direct information, it is said, will be filed in the district court by the district attorney's office against Davy, charging forgery.

POLICE TO SEND LODGERS ON WHEN DAYS MODERATE

As soon as the weather moderates, the "army" of between 40 and 60 men who have been given lodgings in the city jail during the winter, will be "floated" on their way by the police. For this reason the lodgers are to be ordered out of town.

WHAT THE PRESS AGENTS SAY

FAMOUS SUBMARINE

PICTURES COMING TO OPERA HOUSE

Beginning Tuesday, March 4, and daily thereafter for four days at 2:45, 7:30 and 9 o'clock p.m. at the Opera house, there will be shown the most marvelous moving pictures that the skill and daring and ingenuity of man-kind have ever taken.

Nothing now can be had from the universal use of the moving picture camera.

They have climbed mountains, visited the Arctic and Antarctic circles, they have gone to the jungles of Africa and India; they have shot the rapids and whirlpool torrents; in fact no actionous times are glad to get even one chance at the public. "If Pays to Advertise" and "Under Cover" are successes that testify to the talent of the newcomer. "Under Cover" is a tense melodrama, full of suspense, thrills, mystery and surprises easily comparable to its sister success "Within the Law." It has been one of the big successes of New York, Chicago and Boston. The company that is to present it here at the Opera house on Monday, March 8, is the one headed by H. B. Warner and which ran for nearly six months at the George M. Cohan opera house in Chicago. It comes to this city without a single change in its splendid cast. The New York company is apparently a fixture in that metropolis for some time to come, despite the fact that it has been there since the early part of last August. The company that plays here is said to be the best of all.

"Under Cover" tells a fascinating and exciting story of the efforts of the United States customs to capture the smuggler of a $200,000 pearl necklace.

It contains one of the greatest sub-plots ever found in a play.

THE MAN AT THE KEY

At the Empress today the special feature will be a two-reel Domino entitled "The Man at the Key." A thrilling incident of railroad life dramatically presented, with Richard Stanton and Ethel Linton in the title roles. The dangers of the life of a railroad employee are numerous and many, and the hair-raising escape from wrecks and dire disasters are thrillingly depicted in this two-reel Domino story.

The "Decision" in two sets is also on the bill with Ed. Coxon and Winifred Greenwood in the titular roles. It's a dandy production, and all to the good with many laughable comedy situations that will make you smile. The many clever devices throughout are of a more interesting nature than is presented in the average film production.

His Sister's Kids is a laughable new version of "Budgie and Toddy" with Helen Hodges, that precocious Thanhouser kidlet in a stellar role. The humor is evident at all times and many pranks played will create joy and laughter. A good bill all the time. Give us your orders today and avoid Saturday rush.

ON TO CRIPPLE CREEK

THE revival of interest in Cripple Creek mining in Colorado Springs is one of the most gratifying developments of recent years. Nor is it purely local, for it is felt in Denver and in mining circles throughout the country. And the best part of it is, that this revival of interest is not based on an advance in stocks, either real or fictitious, nor on any manipulations of stock jugglers. It is based on the actual production of fabulous wealth.

Recent operations, not only in the Cresson, but in several other mines, have fully confirmed the belief which has long been held that the ore deposits in the lower depths are as rich as, perhaps richer than, those at higher levels which years ago made the camp famous as the richest piece of territory of its size in the world. Indeed, the only wonder is that these developments have not produced conditions similar to those of the stock-boom days.

Today a special train will be run to the Cripple Creek District over the Short Line, with a party of business men from Colorado Springs and Denver. They will number perhaps two hundred, and will spend this afternoon and tomorrow morning visiting the mines and inspecting the ore bodies which have caused so much excitement.

admits it. "But can such legislation be enforced?" Is it not entirely a personal matter? A man does not have to pay extra for his little comforts in life unless he so desires. Let him make his individual anti-tipping law.

The most picturesque of Colorado wild game, the bear, is to get legal protection, it seems. The Legislature is going to declare a closed season for him, and thus put an end to the many lurid tales of escapes from grizzlies. Undoubtedly the bear should be given a chance to grow fat. In the Yellowstone National Park the bears have become so friendly that they are not satisfied with eating out of a man's hand any longer; they want his hand too. The residents of the Park have asked permission to make a few bear skin rugs now.

The Ardourel bill, giving the Governor authority to close a paper that publishes an article tending to incite riot, has passed the third reading. This is another piece of legislation growing out of the recent industrial troubles, and aimed at those radicals who plot against the authorities and say so right out in meeting. It is to be hoped that this authority never will have to be used.

One of the most important measures before the Legislature is the Schmidt bill to repeal the state primary law. Opinion is practically unanimous that several features of the law are useless, especially the assembly feature. It was thoroughly demonstrated in El Paso County, as well as throughout the state, that the assembly plan of selecting candidates to go before the primaries was a fifth wheel of the most unnecessary variety. Nomination by petition is the safe method. But the primary law should not be repealed as a whole. It is a distinct step forward in state government. The present primary plan, minus the assembly feature, should be retained, at least until some better substitute is found.

There are something like 500 bills before the state assembly this year, several of which have been passed, several killed, and the majority are still pending. It is for the administration to cull out the spotted ones and toss them aside to prevent them from blocking the way of good legislation. Colorado certainly does not need just more legislation; it needs good legislation.

BLOCKING ANNEXATION

IT IS easy to understand the desire of Mayor Faulkner and Mrs. Ammerman, who constitute a majority of the Colorado City council, to defeat the annexation project. If annexation carries they will lose their official jobs a month after the election; if it is defeated, or if no election on the subject is held, they may remain on the payroll of their town till the end of their terms.

But these officials ought to realize that their altitude amounts to placing their personal desires before their public duties. The statute under which these proceedings are being conducted clearly defines their course in the matter, to either approve or reject the recommendations of the joint committee, and, if approved, then to order an election. The Colorado City council has already approved the report, but it has not ordered the election.

Every voter of course has a right to his or her opinion as to the wisdom of annexing Colorado City to Colorado Springs. But the impudence of this attempt by two officials to deny the voters the opportunity to express their choice is not likely to be forgotten soon. If it succeeds they may hold their jobs, but it will not be a popular action in a town where the sentiment is unquestionably wholly favorable to the project.

THE ARDOUR BILL

To the Editor of The Gazette:

The house passed on third reading the Ardour bill, giving the governor authority to close a paper for publishing an article tending to incite riot.

This bill, in connection with one which has been presented making it a misdemeanor to criticize in any way a soldier, a militiaman, or to say anything which has any effect of imputation could in its effect effectively prohibit our constitutional right of free speech and free press. A people who assume to be a free people should not submit to such restrictions, in which there is such a menace to all justice and freedom as can, I am sure, be comprehended by any thinker.

Riot never was, and never will be, caused by just and right conditions. And any liberal-minded person will concede that conditions are not just and right but quite the contrary. Therefore, the writer of such a bill as purports to usurp unconstitutional power, is to make it illegal for the people to discuss of free that which is wrong or the remedy.

Such tampering with freedom of speech and press tends to produce just as unpreparedness for war in time of war.

It is quite time for the people to awake and see, every themselves, if they are to be in reality a free people.

FROM OTHER PERSPECTIVE

THIS UNSPEAKABLE WAR

From the Argonaut.

The European war, now laboring heavily in its sixth month, is not only the most colossal of human conflicts, but the most harrowing. It is the first war on a large scale to be waged with the devices and developments of modern science. It is the first war fought less by men than by mechanisms. In land operations the big gun has made the defensive fort obsolete. The air craft has made scouting a mere matter of direct observation. Long-range guns and scientific direction of fire have so separated combatants that commonly they do not see each other.

Warfare under these conditions has not inaptly been described as a conflict waged less by soldiers than by scientists and mechanics. There is no longer the embattled array, the charge, the clash of men with man—what poets have called the "rapture of the fight." There is just the dirty business of working machine guns and of wallowing behind entrenchments.

All that once made war spectacular, brilliant, in a sense fascinating, is gone. Only the grimy side of the wreathed battlefield is left. Under the new conditions warfare is merely slaughter at long range and by machine. It is slaughter without the romance of old-time battle—wholesale murder and nothing else.

Here in the past five and a half months we have had a series of continuous conflicts. There has been fighting enough to make up the tale of a thousand battles as battles were once counted. Yet the record left us leave out the Belgian defense gives us no incident of brilliant action of fine achievement.

The war has produced nothing tending to stimulate lofty sentiments or to promote heroic resolution. It has placed no wreath upon any hero. It is just a heavy and revolting performance of cold-blooded operations more mechanical than vital, attended by circumstances of horridine hardship and of unspeakable cruelty.

On the sea there has been continual destruction and pitiful loss of life, but no single combat under equal and fair conditions. Off the coast of Chile a German fleet with long-range guns met an English fleet with guns of shorter range, and from a zone of safety and with deliberate leisure, with cold-blooded ferocity, smashed the British ships and sent their hundreds to a cruel and useless death. In turn this same German fleet later fell in with an English fleet with guns of relatively longer range and in the same spirit of cold-blooded ferocity was itself smashed and destroyed.

Naval operations near the European coast have been equally shocking to human sensibilities. On both sides many ships have been struck by an unseen force from the depths of the sea or from explosive mines so placed as to trap the unwary. Both combatants, approaching the enemy's coasts by stealth, have dealt out ruin and murder to non-combatants and helpless populations.

It has, from all normal standards of fair play, been a dastardly business. It is, we are told, "futile," and so it may be in the theory of the militarists. But it is a species of warfare harrowing alike to those who engage in it and to those who observe it. There is in it no circumstance of fine inspiration. It tends to nothing but horror.

LIKE A DREAM

From the Kansas City Star.

Not so many years ago—in the winter of 1908—a college president gave a series of lectures at Columbia University on "American Government." He described, as a highly intelligent outsider and the author of a "History of the American People," the workings of the house, the senate and the presidency. Up to that time his life had been passed in academic circles and nobody had the slightest idea that he would ever be called to political office.

Looking back, don't it seem like a dream that the head of Princeton should now be serving as president of the United States?

DID HE GET A BOY?

From the London Chronicle.

It was a baker's shop. From the perforated grating beneath floated a delicious aroma of cake to the great enjoyment of a number of small boys who were looking in the window. Presently the proprietor appeared with a load of steaming hot cakes fresh from the oven, and began to dress the window with artistic piles. Having finished, he went away, but reappeared a few moments later with a card in his hand, which he hung in the window, bearing the words "Boy Wanted."

WHAT THE EDITOR KNOWS.

From the Boston Globe.

In the schools of to-morrow they are teaching that an editor needs to know a great deal about a great many things, and that he cannot possibly know too much; and that is right, but the most important thing for an editor to know is how little comparatively any editor can know.

TOO NEIGHBORLY.

From the Detroit Free Press.

Ambassador Page thinks English feeling toward Uncle Sam is friendly. But all that Uncle Sam is objecting to is too much neighborly interference with his business.

NO CAUSE FOR TREMBLING.

From the Pittsburgh Gazette-Times.

Dwellers on the coast of Maine are seeing it mysterious ails this autumn, but the rest of the country will not be excited until Boston begins to throw fits.

STILL THE SAME.

From the Houston Post.

In spite of all the political reform which has been instituted during the last 20 years, the average politician seems to be mean enough to sandbag his mother-in-law if she stands in the way of his getting an office.

FOOD FOR POETS.

From the Cleveland Plain Dealer.

The best war poetry is not written in America, says a foreign literary man. If there is anything a poet thrives on it's politics.

EXTREMELY PLAUSIBLE.

From the Philadelphia Inquirer.

Young char-lady Lillian Hopkins hasn't had the foot and mouth disease. It could be contracted in Washington, which is no place to plan life.

DO YOU have a "screen" face?

If so, you are eligible to fill the unique position of what in effect amounts to being America's "uncrowned queen."

As Maid of America, which will be your official title, in case of selection for the honor, you will be sent forth in a luxurious Pullman apartment car, surrounded by every comfort that you could possibly enjoy in a faultlessly appointed home, to explore the highways and byways of the wonderful land of your birth, seeing its most interesting sights, meeting its foremost citizens, being made the recipient of receptions by women's clubs and other organizations, figuring in interviews in the great daily newspapers and figuring, also, in a strictly "figurative" sense, in a vast, 5,000,000-foot motion-photo serial, which is to picture all the distinguishing characteristics of the various localities visited.

All this without one kopek of expense to you, mind you!

We rather think that we are justified in believing that you are thoroughly interested by this time.

So we shan't be cruel and keep you on tenterhooks. We'll give you the facts, and when you have absorbed them, you will find that there is absolutely no "catch" in the proposition. You will find that it will revert back to that ancient adage anent a face being ones fortune—providing you have the ideal "screen" face.

Prominent manufacturers, whose business interests represent a combined capitalization of more than $100,000,000, have decided to give practical expression to a sentiment, put forward to date in the fits and starts of merely forensic efforts in favor of trade expansion in the United States by the establishment of an annual open-shop gala day to be devoted to business stimulation and to be known as Made-in-the-U. S. A. Day.

To crystallize this sentiment into a mobile, cumulative force that shall automatically bring fruition to their laudable plan, these manufacturers have resolved on a half-million-dollar publicity campaign, which sum they have already subscribed.

This campaign is to be made to utilize every known avenue to arousing public interest, and, aside from providing for the co-operation of the press, already an aggressive factor in the movement, is to take advantage, also, of that new factor in molding thought—the motion picture.

Now, with the subject of all this agitation being of commercial stripe, and consequently prone to fail of the necessary unanimous support of people immersed in the routine of their various and specialized interests, the committee on general arrangements of the newly-formed Made-in-the-U. S. A. Day Association in New York realized that so an method must be adopted, page and page, utilized to all ends, that, as will be appreciated after deeper cogitation, apostrophizes that which calamitously affects all branches of human endeavor, all wells of life—i. e., all social and civic life, such as the Braggart,

Does the mechanic spend sleepless nights worrying about the future of the planter, or the yachtsman about the twin-maker's complaints, even though his sails were so much ballast without the rope?

And there are the mills that make the sails possible, those that make the books possible—also make possible what not outside of the realm of the factories and mines and furrowed fields? And so on can be pursued comparison showing interrelation and fact that nothing but instant action would suffice.

And, therefore, it behoves you, Miss Young America, who read this, to take instant action, too—enumerated, with a bare exception or two.

As opaque walls separating these various divisions of mankind's work is the comprehension of this interrelation of interests in the majority of cases, and to batter down these walls and flood all departments of labor and all fields of industry with the light of understanding that spells commercial—and, incidentally, social—liberation from the thralldom of conditions such as the war has brought about—that, in its broader definition, is what is known as the Made-in-the-U. S. A. spirit. And to bring about the general understanding just outlined is the first mission (and a crystallization of the long-reigning Made-in-America spirit) of the pioneers of the Made-in-the-U. S. A. Day movement.

Before proceeding, let us enlighten you as to what constitutes a "screen" face. A "screen" face is one that is adaptable to the requirements of photo-drama—that is, one which has features that are mobile and can express emotion. It is a face that will photograph well.

A so-called neutral, or reposeful, ploughman's face, without contrast, without accentuated coloring, however cultivated the intellect back of it, is impossible from the photo-drama producer's viewpoint. Your eyes must "talk," your general expression mirror any great inward emotion that the situation in a play you were acting in, or a crisis in real life, would call forth.

You must have luster in your hair as well as in your eyes, and the appeal of that undeniable force, personality, must hover about you like an aura.

The reproductions on this page are those of women who possess the ideal "screen" face, and truly their faces have proven their fortunes. They are among the foremost "movie" actresses of the day. a great new national day, "different" and more important than all our holidays.

Of course, there are naturally other requirements you must measure up to. Here, in toto, are the magical "musts" that will win you the title of Maid of America, and all the unusual honor that goes with that title:

Must be American-born.

Must be beautiful.

Must have had college or high school education.

Must have perfect figure.

Must dress stylishly, must wear clothes well.

Must have accomplishments that tend to further social prestige.

Must take interest in current topics.

Must have personality.

Must be endowed with a dramatic instinct.

Must be intelligent, naturally bright.

Must be healthy, a true native lass.

And—the test requirement which you must pass is that you can't act.

All the plots go with your name and address on the back, and a complete self-examination giving your age, height, weight, the color of your hair and eyes, and other anatomical details, is a possession and the "musts" in the above tabulation should be sent to "American Maid of America," a committee composed of Englishmen, French, English, New York City. They will be judged by a committee composed of artists and writers, presided over by James Montgomery Flagg, the noted illustrator whose type of American girl is adored by thousands around the globe.

And the last, and only know, before hand, is the date.

weeks. The monster film of 5,000 feet above referred to, will be known as "America," and will be shown in weekly installments in the principal cities of the United States. A studio, now being completed, will accompany the Maid of America on her expedition, and here the developing, printing, assembling and shipping will be undertaken.

It will be seen that much valuable advance publicity will accrue to the campaign headed by the Maid of America through the showing of these films, and because of their serial nature, they will be a potent force in keeping the topic fresh in the public mind long after her departure.

In the meantime, in conformity to the general committee's plan, patriotic citizens everywhere will be constrained to strike while the iron is hot, to take advantage of the balls with the wording "Are you in favor of an annual national open-shop gala day to be known as Made-in-the-U. S. A. Day?" by voting yes. A veritable deluge of these ballots will follow in the wake of the Maid of America's visit, and the press of the cities visited is counted on to give them further vogue by running daily printed forms of ballots, or publishing them at stated intervals, until the local organized commercial interests have arranged with their representative at Washington to act in accordance with the appointment of his constituents.

In all sections of the big serial "America" film will appear the Maid of America in the guise of a composite spectator for the great American public who later will view the wonderful scenes depicted in their eyes as will sparkle in those of the beautiful propagandist of the Made-in-the-U. S. A. Day movement.

In the meantime, let us assume the prospective voter in this contest for the greatest honor that could possibly be bestowed on a daughter of America, for she will find everything arranged for her reception wherever she goes by a committee of "boosters" who will jostle ahead and maneuver with the summer and organ teams and newspapers of the towns to be visited by her. This will be left to the charge of J. Arthur Nichols, a young California business man who conceived the idea of a Made-in-the-U. S. A. Day a year ago and has labored unceasingly to secure its establishment.

Who will be the one to be titled the Maid of America, and a rich, befitting queen of all America—be it east or west, or north or south, the flower of the sport of jockeying with the envy of thousands of her sex?

Well, to you!

"I open my only know, before hand, is the date.

WELSH BEATS WHITE IN WHIRLWIND 10-ROUND BATTLE AT MILWAUKEE

Sporting Writers Practically Unanimous in Deciding for the British Title-Holder; Champ Too Fast for Chicagoan

MILWAUKEE, Feb. 25.—Freddie Welsh outboxed Charlie White in a 10-round no-decision boxing contest at the Auditorium tonight, according to the almost unanimous opinion of sporting writers. Welsh appeared to have the advantage of five rounds, the third to seventh, inclusive. White shaded his opponent in the ninth and tenth and the first, second and eighth appeared to be even.

The Englishman had White at his mercy during most of the fight, being fast and clever and getting away without punishment. White was slow and seemed unable to solve Welsh's whirlwind style of attack.

In the earlier rounds, Welsh set a brisk pace but found White willing to mix with him at all times. White waited carefully for openings in the evident hope of shooting in the short left hook for which he is famous, but the champion's shifty footwork and clever blocking made many of his efforts of no avail. White seemed more confident than in their former meeting and the first two rounds seemed to the spectators to be fairly even.

Welsh got in the first punch, a light right to White's jaw. White took things easy but Freddie was outpointing the Chicago boy but grew a trifle belliger. Charlie mixed it, having shade the better. The round ended even.

In the second White took advantage of every opportunity, but found Welsh a shifty boy. White had more confidence and Freddie was required to use all his cleverness. Even round.

Welsh's fast left jab did splendid execution in the third round, and finally smothered the Chicagoan, who fought back wildly. Freddie landed a half a dozen punches to Charlie's face without a return. A wild swing of the challenger accidentally landed low, but apparently did no damage to Welsh.

In the fourth White's seconds urged him to mix, but his rushes in most cases were avoided or checked by the champion's left jab. Freddie dabbled around the challenger, landing almost at will in the fifth and sixth rounds. He used a hard right swing to Charlie's head and landed it frequently. White continually tried to win in his left to the jaw, but Welsh was too shifty to be caught.

White's eyes were puffed from the champion's blows, and he became so wild in the seventh and eighth rounds that the crowd began to howl and hoot.

HARRY DAVIS TO CAPTAIN ATHLETICS THIS SEASON

Ira Thomas, Captain Last Year, Will Have Complete Charge of the Pitching Department

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 25.—Harry Davis will be captain of the Philadelphia Athletics this coming season, it was announced today by Manager Connie Mack. Tommie C. Williams, captain of the team last season, will be succeeded as coach of the pitchers.

Davis, captain of the Athletics for several years before he became manager of the Cleveland Americans a few years ago, has been managing the Athletics for the past two years. He has been managing the Athletics.

Terreau Giants Best Bet.

Opposite probably will be the Terreau Giants, who are getting off to a strong start. A good year, if not worked too often, ought to be good for at least 50 per cent for the team.

Admit Many Loans.

While admitting that loans had been made from time to time by the league, the club asserted that these loans are offset by sums due from the defendant. The bill states that although the club has repeatedly asked the league for a statement of its account, being ready to pay any just claims, the league has refused any such statement, although continuing to claim a balance from the club. The suit was set for a hearing on March 5.

A full accounting of the inside affairs of the Federal league, its expenses, its income and its losses will probably be made at the hearing, according to counsel for the Kansas City club.

J. H. Haft and Son, T. Gilmore, the Kansas City delegation who spent the day here in an effort to dissuade Federal league officials from transferring the franchise, left for Buffalo as soon as the suit was filed. They will attend the league meeting and make a further effort to retain the franchise.

Believeable, McGraw is well informed. He has a seat in Smith's souped-up sedan. Elmer Johnson, who was a member of the 1914 champion, has joined the New York Yankees. Both have raised their game, but still are pretty good at hitting and also at stopping.

Braves Stronger Than Ever.

The Braves will present a stronger team in 1915 than they did in 1914. That is a matter of fact, not a guess. The team is stronger and the players are more experienced. The 1914 team was a good one, but the 1915 team is even better.

Duke of Portland Cancels Racing Entries Due to Club's Unpatriotism

LONDON, Feb. 25.—The Duke of Portland, president of the British Motor Union, has decided that the organization will not compete in the British Empire Games to be held in 1916, because of the attitude of the British racing clubs, which will not let the Duke and his team compete.

This building was to be open to all British citizens, but the British government is about to hold a referendum meeting. What the association will do after the occupancy of its building

CURLEY GOES TO SEE WHASSAMATA WITH HIS ETHIOPIAN FRIEND IN HAVANA, CUBA

Training Partner of Smoke Gets Wire Standing Fight Will Be in Havana; Jones Says Willard Will Not Agree

EL PASO, Tex., Feb. 25.—It appeared late today that Havana, Cuba, and Juarez, Mexico, had about equal chances of being stages for the heavyweight championship boxing bout.

Jack Curley, promoter of the fight, left today for Havana, as "he explained it, "to see what was the matter." Curley said before his departure: "I will bring Jack Johnson to Juarez if I can."

Tom Jones, Jess Willard's manager, said that he would not agree to hold the battle anywhere but at Juarez, where all arrangements have been made. Willard has gone into light training.

The Mexican situation made it appear that the American negro could not reach Juarez, barring as he is from passing through the United States, much within a month. The Villas advance line along the east coast do not extend at any point nearer than 50 miles from the Atlantic.

General Carranza has issued orders to challenge Johnson's entry on the grounds that he is a fugitive from justice in the United States on account of the Mann act charge against him at Chicago. Curley and Jones insisted that no fighter would be substituted for Willard at Juarez. While

"I don't believe Johnson ever said that," declared Curley.

"I am going down to Havana to see what's the matter, that's all. There is absolutely nothing definite yet. It is true that it has been suggested to hold the fight in Havana, but nothing has been settled as far as I am concerned."

He continued his rushing tactics in the final round, and Welsh met him toe to toe. The champion seemed somewhat tired, but his superior cleverness saved him from any serious punishment. White missed repeatedly.

Put Your Money on the Giants or Braves

Everything Points to One or the Other

CHICAGO, Feb. 25.—A temporary injunction, issued by the circuit court today, held up the transfer of the Kansas City Federal league franchise to P. T. Powers of New York, which was expected to be effected at the meeting of the league in Buffalo tomorrow.

The injunction was issued after the Kansas City club had filed suit to restrain the Federal league from transferring the franchise to another party.

The writ of injunction was served on James A. Gilmore, president of the Federals, tonight, just as he was boarding a train for the Buffalo meeting.

The acquisition of Sherwood Magee has greatly strengthened the Braves' outfield. Magee's presence adds at least 50 per cent to the offensive and defensive power of the outfit. With Father Moran, "Slugging Joe" Connolly and Gilbert as company for Magee, the outfielding department of the Braves will be taken care of better than ever before.

"Hammering Hank" Gowdy.

Behind the bat there's "Hammering Hank" Gowdy. He's almost enough in himself, but the Braves also have Bert Willing, one of the best fielding backs in the game, and three recruits Fred Tyler, William Truesco and Eddie Buey. All three are highly touted.

The Braves have no excuse for work about the pitching department. They will have veterans "Big Bill" James and Dick Rudolph, who performed in such wonderful fashion last year, and "Lefty" Tyler, who pitched marvelously from July until the end of the season, and a swarm of youngsters.

Included among the "youngsters" are George Davis, who pitched a no-hitter game last season, and who is reported to be ready for regular duty in 1915; Currell, Cutcher, Strand and Chapman, who were on the Braves' roster last year and again secured from Jersey City, where he made a great record.

Tom Hughes, sound from Baltimore, and Fred Ross, the veteran, round out the three pitching staffs.

NEW YORK MARKET

NEW YORK, Feb. 25.—Further recovery from recent price depressions was made by today's stock market. Mexican Petroleum, American Tobacco and the motor stocks scored more material gains.

The week features included New Haven Southern railway preferred.

St. Paul preferred, Seaboard Airline preferred, Mackay companies preferred and Pressed Steel Car preferred, all of which touched new low minimum prices.

More stability was manifested by all the market for foreign exchange.

Domestic monetary movements show a slight hardening of rates for long-term accommodations. The market value of the Anaconda copper note offering, which coincides with an advance in the values of copper metal to 15 cents, was the interesting development of the day.

The Atchison system presented its January statement, which was noteworthy chiefly for its small increase in operating expenses, thereby enabling a net increase of about $20,000.

Bonds were firm, except in some of the lower-priced speculative issues. Total sales, par value, $2,030,000.

THE BEST OF EVERYTHING

Independent California Paid for Her Exposition; Then Proceeded to Boss the Exhibit—Exposition Officials Have Been Able to Make Their Own Laws and Demands Because They Didn't Sell Space

It remained for California to make the remarkable discovery that an exposition should be for the benefit of the visitor. Heretofore the exhibitor has been the boss, but the Panama-Pacific International exposition has changed that, to his own advantage, however. It charges him nothing for space and tells him what shall go into it.

When the cooking-stove manufacturer, for instance, at previous expositions, where space was sold, made up his mind to outshine all his competitors, he bought up all the space he could afford and installed a sample of every size, from 40 to 27 X 48, he paid for the space, and could exhibit what he pleased, and the visitor had to look at it. If the visitor were at all interested in cooking stoves, he had to wade past a mile of them, all essentially alike, in order to get the general idea.

The San Francisco exposition has annihilated that nuisance, and the public gets the results. The manufacturer, for instance, came on the gallop when he found that space was free, and modestly requested about four acres. No such "Let's see what you expect to exhibit," demanded San Francisco. "Well," complacently stated the manufacturer, "here's size 60, and there's size 72."

"Wait a minute! What is there particularly instructive about this one?"

The manufacturer putted himself with indignant surprise. "Why, that's size 72!" Don't you see, it's three inches larger than 60?"

San Francisco smiled the aggravating smile of the party who doesn't owe a cent, and observed: "A hundred square feet, one typical example, and an exhibit showing how your goods are constructed and how they work. That's all. Now show us the design for your booth."

"Well, I have a white pine railing and a desk."

Independence Raised to the Nth Power.

"Nothing," "doing," remarked San Francisco nonchalantly. "The booths in this exhibit are French-Italian-Spanish Renaissance in style, and you'll be required to spend about so many hundred dollars in giving some class to your exhibit. We don't care where you get your booth made, nor how, but the design and workmanship must comport with the dignity of the Panama-Pacific International exposition."

And there was no appeal. The Panama-Pacific International exposition has been as independent as a little girl with a pink mohair and seven beaux. You see, Jim Grimes has been a good sport, and she's insisting on the privilege of that high accomplishment.

Previous expositions have begun operations with the grant of a few millions from the United States government. California found a little goodness in congress when this matter was first broached, so she got on her dignity and paid for her own exposition. It cost her over $20,000,000, and it's here. The citizens subscribed $7,500,000, the municipal government of San Francisco furnished $5,000,000, the state of California gave $3,000,000, and the counties of California came along with $3,000,000 more. So come right on in and have a good time. The water's fine.

Bossing the exposition has been the most amazing progress made in civilization in the past decade. Time was when Jim Grimes, the manufacturer of Grimes E. Pluribus corn-husker, could arrange his educational exhibit in this wise: Beginning at the upper end of aisle G, you behold the original Grimes E. Pluribus corn-husker as first manufactured in 1867. Next to you behold the original Grimes E. Pluribus corn-husker as manufactured in 1889, after the handle on the fly-wheel had been made of cork, thus preventing the well-known objectionable creaking on the inside of the thumb-finger.

Further on you behold the posts, famous E. Pluribus corn-husker as manufactured in 1899, in which year of progress red paint was used on the legs, thus ornamenting and beautifying an otherwise prosaic product, and so on, inch by inch, down to 1915. By the time you had passed the Grimes E. Pluribus corn-husker exhibit, you had lost all interest in the store of little exhibit immediately beyond, which exhibit you had judged all this weary distance to be.

Education in Capsule Form.

Jim Grimes is half-broken in San Francisco. He is only allowed to show his 1915 model, embodying as it does the remarkable improvement in corn-huskers in the past 10 years.

Nurs. Cole. I had been troubled for two years with an eruption on my scalp. At times the itching was almost unbearable. My hair was rubbed out and I didn't know what to do. I tried everything.

Every Exhibit Had to Show Something New.

McL. C. Hall is the largest building in the city, and it will be filled by mandolins every day, and they live in guitars with bows like violin bows.

All the railing and food troughs, and metal work of every description, is fully enamelled. The highly polished ornaments stand on a flooring composed of three-fourths cork and one-fourth metal, which is almost like carpet in softness, but is also so moisture-proof and strong-absorbent. The walls are arranged similarly so that you see the full length of the ornaments, in place of the mirror so often found, and fails to give you that homey accustomed. If you are a farmer, or a dairyman, or a housekeeper with one cow, or just a person who gets the morning bottle milk at the door, you will find something of absorbing interest here, for there is shown in minute detail every process of turning milk into butter, cheese, and condensed cream, and everything else which can be produced from milk.

Lime Treatment in Tuberculosis.

In the May 25, 1912, issue of the Journal of the American Medical Association appeared this statement concerning calcium lime medication in the treatment of pulmonary tuberculosis:

"Under the systematic, continued and persistent regimen of calcium as assimilation, Van Gieson has seen a number of his patients improve, undergo an evulsion or partial consolidation in the lung, which then resolving would appear to contribute to the walling off and clearing of the lesions. Hand in hand with this course of events, the sputum clears up of tubercle bacilli, which finally disappear, and the patients are discharged with healed pulmonary tuberculosis."

Federal medical journals seldom speak of possibly about a remedial agent, yet this testimony commands that from more conservative physicians secured like results through the use of Ekman's Alternative.

Since calcium is a constituent of this remedy for pulmonary tuberculosis and allied throat and brain diseases, its healing power may in some measure be attributed to the "mannin" in which this element is contained with other ingredients, as to be easily assimilated by the average person and it does not irritate the stomach."

Ekman's Alternative contains no opiates, narcotics, or habit-forming drugs, as it is safe to take. Your druggist is not too far to seek him to order or send direct to Ekman Laboratory, Philadelphia, Pa.

CUTICURA SOAP.

To Dr. L. M. and Cuticura Soap Co., Inc., 1000 Market St., Philadelphia, Pa.: Dear Sirs: I am sending you a sample of our Cuticura Soap and Ointment. I washed my hair with the soap and used the ointment. Now my hair is back to well again. Yours very truly, Mrs. A. B. C. Feb. 10, 1914.

RENO, NEV. AGAIN GOING INTO ITS SIXTH RESIDENCE DIVORCE BILL HAS JUST BEEN SIGNED BY GOVERNOR DOYLE.

Nothing which antedates the St. Louis exposition is encouraged at San Francisco. You get your insulation and your education condensed; capsuled, yet were brought into such a range that the human system can grasp and absorb it. This adds about 500 per cent to the interest, and does away with about 50 per cent of the fatigue. The old system was like reading the dictionary, from cover to cover, in order to find out how to spell pluribus.

Everything in which you are interested is here, the best of it, displayed in the best manner, and its information features selected and arranged with care, with skill, with judgment and intelligence. No exposition was ever so complete nor was any so expeditiously finished. The method of handling the exhibits themselves has been responsible for this. Shipments arriving by rail are switched right into the exposition grounds in their original packages, on the space they are to occupy; for railroad tracks run through every building and a gigantic system of derricks does the rest. Shipments arriving by sea are docked at railroad tracks, which run into the water, and the drayage extortion which has been the scandal of so many expositions has no existence here. In fact, no scandal at all has existed here. Over $50,000,000 have been expended in the making of the Panama-Pacific International exposition, and there has not been one whisper of misuse in connection with it.

The exhibits themselves are a joy. In their clean-cut directness to the things worth while, California made up her mind to build not only the most beautiful, but the most interesting educational exposition ever put together, and she has kept that idea firmly before her. To begin with, she appointed commissions and committees, all experts, to discover experts. When these committees found a man who knew more about any given thing than anybody else knew about it, they sent right after him, and they got him. It made no difference whether he was from Boston, or New York, or Dublin, or Los Angeles, or San Francisco, or where. If he was the best, they got him, and having secured him, they gave him all the help he wanted, and told him to go as far as he liked. And they are amazed themselves at the results which they have secured.

In the Horticultural Building, for instance, you'll find a director who knows more about the science of horticulture than the man who invented it. Hell show you the most beautiful fully decorated horticultural building ever brought into existence. Hell show you the tallest palm, and the smallest palm, and the palm which is 2,000 years old nobody knows why. But the pride of his heart is not the lake, or water, or rare plants; it's the food products adinner-table department which claims his interest, the economic division.

The exhibits deal with the best and most advanced methods of fruit canning. Every step in the process will be shown, beginning in the orchard and ending in the grocer's. There is no competition in this display. It is above and beyond commerce, and it is made by the National Fruit Growers association. Every woman who cares for consumers' fruit will find something here to her interest and advantage. The exhibit has been placed in charge of government experts.

It is the same in the Agricultural buildings. Not one here cares for twinings off corn, for the potato which looks like Alabamian Linseed. Instead you will see wheat threshed separately, ground into flour and made into bread, all by the most advanced and improved processes, processes and improvements which have come into existence in the last 10 years. The bread, risings, and what not, will be made before your eyes, by the prize winners of 10 nations, and you will eat it hot from the oven if you want to. You can bake bread or eat it raw, find something here to your interest and advantage. That is the key-note of this entire exposition. There are 600 wine growers in California, but there is only one wine exhibit. It is a combination affair, conducted by the active-minded wine-making authorities of the world, and the wine-growers themselves are learning from others' mistakes.

Further on you notice the posts, famous E. Pluribus corn-husker as manufactured in 1899, in which year of progress red paint was used on the legs, thus ornamenting and beautifying an otherwise prosaic product, and so on, inch by inch, down to 1915. RENO, NEV. AGAIN GOING INTO ITS SIXTH RESIDENCE DIVORCE BILL HAS JUST BEEN SIGNED BY GOVERNOR DOYLE.

Nothing which antedates the St. Louis exposition is encouraged at San Francisco. This adds about 500 per cent to the interest, and does away with about 50 per cent of the fatigue. The old system was like reading the dictionary, from cover to cover, in order to find out how to spell pluribus.

Everything which is shown by the fact that people who know nothing, and have cared little, for mechanical products, linger here, and return again and again. Everything works here, even the giant engine—it weighs 200,000 pounds and is the latest available in power—has been harvested in an electric generator, thus furnishing the lights for the other machines. That's a useful exhibit, and the fact that it is seen in actual application only adds to its interest as a display. It has the same attraction to a man that the works of a watch has to a boy.

It is admirable this great exposition—admirable in every way—but its most admirable quality has been selective judgment; the rigid exclusion of the trivial and the imperative demand for worth. That keynote is found in every department, from the Palace of Fine Arts, with its countless treasures of painting and sculpture, to the Zone, with its hundreds of amusement concessions. A study of sociology will find not only the progress of the last 10 years in the Palace of Education and Sociology, but a foreshadowing of the progress of the next 10 years. Whatever your interest—mining, manufacturing, what not—you will find here something which you did not know and which you will be glad to know.

The Best With the Least Effort.

You will find a thorough exposition of the best there is in your line of interest or activity, and you will go away well repaid. Nor will you be physically and mentally wearied, for here there is no waste, and the grounds and buildings have been specially designed for the joy and comfort of the visitors. There is beauty everywhere, rest for the eye, for the brain, for the body. Whatever subject you wish to investigate will be found compactly grouped. Those who have trudged through weary miles of exhibitions to and from, will appreciate what this means.

How well the dignified attitude and the rigid requirements of California have been accepted is one of the joys of the enterprise. Nations, states, corporations and individuals, as soon as they caught the spirit of the idea, were eager in their cooperation. The Netherlands, for instance, finding that California wanted the best and only the best, and would have nothing else, secured her territory for the finest examples of her horticultural products and simply commanded them, China, enthusiastic over the strict requirements, due to her most sacred and proudly semi-autonomous.

Exhibitors who had protested most loudly against being housed, to their own advantage, became, in time, the most loyal supporters of the remarkable discovery that an exposition should be for the benefit of the visitors, and they're living off themselves for it. One manufacturer, who wanted to put in a showcase and call it an exhibit, and was compelled to build a $3,000 booth, for the housing of his showcase, will bring to his dying day of his enterprise an "impressive" display and his enthusiasm grateful to the exposition for making him do it.

The same insistence on class is shown in the preparation for the racing and athletic events. California does nothing by halves. She is putting up the biggest prizes ever known and is demanding of the world her best athletes, her best horses, her best everything. The Vanderbilt cup race is to be run in the exposition grounds starting in the morn and a quarter race-track and shooting up through the avenue of palms, turning down in front of the Palace of Machinery to the Esplanade, and returning along the base to the track.

But the people, the visitors to the exposition? Won't they be run away or run out, or, at least, be in the way? Not a bit! There will be 200,000 for the opening of their there, but that day the exposition will be a race-track and a grandstand, from miles long. That's doing a mighty full hand stroke at a good start, California!

A single mile of open water racing, approximately 250,000 tons, and races in solitaire, on the average, will draw 10,000 tons of foreign matter. In all, about 25,000 tons of solid substances are thus cleaned annually by the ocean. United States geological survey.

French General Gets Warm Reception in Roumania and Serbia.

LONDON, February 25.—Two new disputes received to London today from southeastern Europe deserve the attention of the reporters. Late action General Paul Pacov of the French army, in Roumania and Serbia.

General Pacov recently has been in Roumania and is evident that he is employed by the French government on special missions. A dispatch from Bucharest, Roumania, says that he was given a hearty welcome on his arrival and that he made himself popular in the capital.

A message from Nisch, Serbia, says General Pacov is there from Belgrade. At the station the French commander was welcomed by Premier Petar Stojanovic, the foreign minister of war and other members of the cabinet. As he drove to the French legation, he received an ovation from the crowd which lined the street.

A third dispute from Sofia, Bulgaria, says General Pacov is expected to continue in view of the fact that the political situation in Roumania still is very uncertain.
